The article discusses the concept of handicap 2 (0) in sports betting, specifically in the context of the 1xBet platform. Handicap 2 (0) refers to a scenario where a team is given a two-goal disadvantage at the start of a game. The article explains that this type of bet can be useful when the preferred team is expected to win easily, as it allows players to increase their potential winnings while still maintaining a reasonably high probability of winning.

The article also provides an example to illustrate how handicap 2 (0) works. It shows that even if the favored team wins by only one goal, the player's choice of handicap 0 (2) would still result in a winning bet. Finally, the article provides a table comparing the different handicap options available on 1xBet, emphasizing how choosing the correct handicap can maximize player winnings and provide a more realistic betting experience.
